

Stage Club

With the approach of the summer, the Stage Club activities in the "Ivy Theatre" will almost cease, and members are now concentrating on the "radio theatre" and are put out for their talent.

The latest radio venture to be broadcast over Z.B.W. is an amusing play by Gordon Daviot entitled "Remember Caesar."

Briefly, the play, set in the reign of Charles the Second, deals with the consequences of jumping to conclusions without due thought.

With a strong cast, the production is in the hands of a recently joined member, Reinaldo Obilias who has already made his mark with his performance of Launcelot Fitch in "Youth at the Helm."

This play takes the air on Monday, June 9.

Regular listeners to Radio Magazine can hear issue eleven next Tuesday. This shows signs of being an excellent issue with songs by Honour Ewart and a short play specially written for the Magazine by Frank Leeming, entitled "The Man Whose Wife Was Dumb."

Several new radio plays are being prepared for future presentation and any one interested should watch this column for news of casting rehearsals.

Bangkok, May 31. Vice-Admiral Sir Denis Boyd, Commander-in-Chief of the British Pacific Fleet, will make a courtesy visit to Bangkok from June 6 to 12. Admiral Boyd will travel in his flagship, H.M.S. Alder.—Reuter.

CRUCIAL INDIA MEETING TO-DAY

Expected Decision For A Division Of Country

Authorities Take Precautions

London, May 31. London political quarters are confident that following final talks with the Viceroy this weekend on the Cabinet approved constitutional plan, the Indian leaders will arrive at the crucial conference on Monday with their minds made up on fundamental issues. If, as many expect, their first decision at the conference is for a division of India, then it is thought, will deal with, among others, the following points:

Firstly—arrangements for the endorsement of India's elected representatives to the principle of division and their wishes on the shape of the division through the existing Constituent Assembly.

Secondly—arrangement for the setting up of a second constituent assembly so that there may be a similar reference to the Muslim League elected representatives who are not taking part in the present Constituent Assembly.

Thirdly—adjustment of the central government machinery to meet the needs of the situation between now and the change-over.

Fourthly—consideration of the position of the Indian states in relation to the arrangements proposed.

The fact that all developments of the conference will be contingent upon the decisions of the Indians themselves means that the proposals, both broadly and in detail, will remain an official secret until the simultaneous announcement from Delhi and in the House of Parliament.—Reuter.

Plan Approved

London, May 31. Before leaving for London, Lord Mountbatten, the Viceroy, discussed privately with Indian leaders the main features of the British plan for transfer of power to Indian hands and obtained substantial acceptance of it, a political correspondent declared in the "Sunday Times."

Lord Mountbatten returned to India with "strong hopes" of an agreement at the vital meeting on June 2 in Delhi, the correspondent added. "The plan, which was outlined in the "Sunday Times" a week ago, was not altered in any material aspect during the London discussions between the Viceroy and the Government and its formal approval by Indian leaders is believed to be probable.

"There may be last minute difficulties but the Viceroy has been given some latitude for dealing promptly with any change in the situation," the correspondent continued.

"Should an agreement be reached on Monday, the procedure to determine partition—no hope of a united India is now entertained—will be put into operation at once.

"British withdrawal will be made before the final date, June 1948, if the Indian leaders are ready to undertake full responsibility for Indian affairs before then.

"Whether India or any self-governing part of it, remains in the British Commonwealth will be a matter entirely for the Indians themselves to decide," the correspondent added.

High Status

The attitude of the Dominions on this point—they have been kept informed about the negotiations—is interesting. Their view, of which Whitehall is well-aware, is that full-membership of the British Commonwealth is a high status calling for a proper appreciation of its duties and advantages and for an appropriate standard of government and administration.

"India, they feel, should be welcomed as a member of the Commonwealth on this understanding, but not pressed with inducements. In short, it is not the business of the British Government to 'sell' the Commonwealth to India. There is

THE YARD STUMPED

London, May 31. Scotland Yard is facing the longest list of unsolved murders in its history—22 cases in which no one is known.

The Yard's experts explain that the vast floating population of men and women on leave or transfer and the large number of deserters renders detection more difficult than ever before.—Reuter.

Brailsford Statement On India

London, May 31. Mr. N. Brailsford, Chairman of the Friends of India Group, today issued the following statement from London: "Since it came into life a few weeks ago at a public luncheon, the Friends of India Group has been gathering further support and discussing its future line of action."

"Friends of India have always had their own organisations, for the purpose of putting their case to the British public.

"This new Group is something wholly different. It consists of Englishmen of all parties interested in India among them Sir Stanley Reed, Sir George Schuster, Mr. Leonid Elmhurst, Mr. Woodrow Wyatt and myself.

"Though its membership is entirely British, it will, of course, promote discussions with Indians and welcome Indian guests. For that purpose Sadiq Ghosh, who is now in charge of public relations on the High Commissioner's staff, provides the link.

"It is planning for a new era that lies ahead of us after India has gained her independence in the belief that Indo-British relations may then become happier and more integrated.

Precautions

New Delhi, June 1. Police riot squads in New Delhi will be issued with Bren guns and other military weapons tomorrow and troops will also be posted at strategic points in the city as part of the measures to control lawlessness.

In Lahore, troubled capital of the Punjab, the Governor of the province, Sir Ewen Jenkins, met senior military commanders and the Inspector-General of Police to complete arrangements to prevent further outbreaks of communal violence during and after the talks.

The police are being armed immediately throughout the province. The assembly of five or more persons and the carrying of weapons is prohibited in all districts and persons disobeying may be fined on the spot.

"If and when we have trouble," he said, "and Britain has even 35,000 to 50,000 planes, we won't have any notice and that whole country could be wiped out in 48

Menace Of Russian Air Fleets

Washington, June 1. Top-level air experts have warned the U.S. Congress that Russia is outstripping America in the production of military planes and could destroy Britain in 48 hours "without the atomic bomb."

They hint that the Soviet Union is turning out some 50,000 aircraft yearly, more than double their 1944 production.

Mr. Oliver P. Echols, President of the Aircraft Industries Association, told a Senate Aviation Sub-committee that Russia is producing "many, many times" the number of planes manufactured in America. He urged the establishment of a five-year aircraft production planning programme.

"If and when we have trouble," he said, "and Britain has even 35,000 to 50,000 planes, we won't have any notice and that whole country could be wiped out in 48

nities have been reported encouraging the organisation of private armies.

Police and military officials at Calcutta completed plans for a cordon around that city. Movement of troops to strategic areas in the city was reported.—Associated Press.

C-In-C Back

Karachi, May 31. Field-Marshal Sir Claude Auchinleck, Commander-in-Chief in India, arrived here from London by air today and at once left for New Delhi.

He cut short his programme in Britain to return to India in time for the Viceroy's conference with Indian leaders on Monday.—Reuter.

JANE'

Importance Of The Spinster

London, June 1. The unmarried woman may not be important, but she has to live socially and has proved important socially—if only as an aunt.

So said Miss Isabel Laird, London University lecturer, addressing the National Union of Townswomen's Guilds at its conference at Edinburgh yesterday.

"Less than half the women of marriageable age—say between fifteen and fifty—in Britain are married," she said. "The bachelor rate, too, is rising fast."

"We haven't got far in solving family, but we've hardly begun the problems of home life for the look at the problem of home life for the unmarried man or woman."

"I myself have tried nine different ways of making a home life; from hotel, through one-room flat, paying guest, and residential club, to sharing."

Miss Laird suggested that in fifty years the Guild would no longer be an all-woman organisation any more than most homes consisted of women alone.

Her advice to Townswomen's Guilds of the present included: "It may be more important for a townswoman at the moment to dig up an allotment and grow vegetables than to sit at five important committees."

ADRIENNE AMES DEAD

New York, May 31. Adrienne Ames, 39-year-old former film star, died here today of cancer. She had continued her radio appearances until a fortnight ago.—United Press.

Pro-Russian Cabinet In Budapest

Budapest, May 31.

The Hungarian Cabinet crisis provoked by yesterday's resignation in Switzerland of Prime Minister Ferenc Nagy was solved tonight when the Defence Minister, General Lajos Dinnyes, was sworn in as new Prime Minister. Like Dr. Nagy, General Dinnyes belongs to the Smallholders Party, the largest party in the country.

The elimination of the Foreign Minister, Janos Gyoengyessy, from the new Government is the sole other change brought about by the crisis. The portfolio of foreign affairs will be held for the time being by the Minister of Information, M. Mihalyfi, another member of the Smallholders Party.

Dr. Gyoengyessy, just as Dr. Nagy himself, was implicated in the Russian allegations that they had been taking part in treason plot.

It was stated tonight that a new Cabinet has been appointed without any conditions having been laid down, such as the holding of a new election or nationalisation of banks.

The swearing in of the new Cabinet was delayed for half an hour tonight when Dr. Zoltan Tildy, President of the Republic, Mihaly Rakosi, Communist Vice-Premier, and Dr. Szakasits, Socialist Vice-Premier, disputed whether Dr. Bologh should retain his post as Under-Secretary of State in the new Government. Dr. Bologh has been regarded as the "last line of defence" of the Smallholders Party.

Reports current in Budapest tonight suggest that the ultimate Foreign Minister would be Stephen Kertesz, Hungarian Minister in Rome.

In London, Reuters' diplomatic correspondent wrote that the reconstruction of the Government at least theoretically maintained the former balance of political forces in Hungary. It is thought inevitable that the link.

It is planning for a new era than they have ever been in the past.

"It means to include in its field of vision cultural and economic, as well as political, questions."—Reuter.

Manfred Repeats His Disappearing Act

Berlin, June 1. Manfred Dinse, 13-year-old schoolboy who was the first German to "visit" England after the war, has disappeared again from his Berlin home, after being repatriated by the British Red Cross.

Manfred, a dark well-mannered lad, with a twinkling eye and almost perfect English, went aboard the British ship Empire Rambler in August 1945 and landed in Newcastle. He travelled down to Taunton, Somerset, where his extraordinary gift for mimicry enabled him to pass himself off as an English schoolboy.

He spent one year at Taunton Grammar School, but was then discovered and repatriated by the British Red Cross early in the summer of 1946.

On his return to Berlin Manfred said that his life's aim was to join the British Fleet Air Arm.

After a few months at home with his father, a Berlin policeman, Manfred decamped to the American sector of Berlin, where an American officer proposed to adopt him, but American laws still forbid adoption.

The boy was retrieved by the British officials when he vanished again.

British measles in Berlin have been posted with placards warning:

Peiping Express Derailed

Peiping, May 31. "Several hundred" passengers were killed and injured as a Peiping-Mukden railway train bound for Mukden was blown up by Communist mines near Lutai, 25 miles east of Tientsin.

Rail officials reported that the locomotive and the first three coaches were derailed, and the next two stood on end, in what might turn out to be the highest loss of civilian life through Communist rail destruction.

They said that at present the exact number of victims and whether the train carried forengers were not known.

Officials said the train, consisting of 10 passenger cars and three freight and baggage wagons, struck mines after leaving Lutai. The train left Tientsin at 2:40 p.m.—the third day of the reopening of the Peiping-Mukden line following widespread destruction of bridges and tracks by the Reds.

Chinese reports claimed that Communist guerrillas appeared on the scene of the wreck shortly after the explosion and looted.—United Press.

Asks For An Autopsy To Prove She's A Virgin

Nagoya, May 31. Twenty-six-year-old Setsuko Fujita was standing in the street near her home, talking to a friend.

A police vice squad came and arrested her and herded her into a van with other women, mostly the painted "street women," the police arrest on such nights.

At the police station, Setsuko was told she would have to submit to a medical examination for VD.

Later, she was found in the washroom, dead.

Before swallowing poison, the girl scribbled in her notebook: "Please have an autopsy on my body and it will prove I am a virgin."—United Press.

R.N. OFFICER FINED

London, May 31.

A Naval Commander, Archibald Russell, and his 36-year-old wife, who reside in a fashionable Mayfair home, today were fined $40,554 for violating regulations restricting the amount of currency permitted for foreign travel.

The court said that Russell, who participated in the North African and Normandy invasions, succumbed to the outrageous demands of his wife, who allegedly secured funds for a Monte Carlo holiday from the international financier, Max Intriator.—United Press.

Search For Missing Blonde In Mountains Friday, Thirteenth, Disappearances

The melting snows of Vermont's rugged Green Mountains may reveal the secret of New England's greatest modern mystery — the disappearance of Paula Welden, a sophomore student at swanky Bennington College.

Most recent was that of Miss Barbara W. Beckel, 18, of Huntington, Pa., who sat out on a dinner date with a sailor on Nov. 30, 1945, and failed to return at midnight. The next day she was found at the home of friends nearby, and two days later her mother withdrew her from college.

Experienced men, wise in the ways of the woods, and untrained college boys and girls beat the brush for several weeks after Paula vanished while on a casual Sunday afternoon walk, but at best the search was hasty and not too well-organized because of the onset of winter in the north country. Heavy snows finally forced abandonment of the search.

Hitch-Hiked

Despite the efforts of investigators augmented by imported detectives, all that is known is that Paula disappeared after hopping out of Louis Knapp's automobile in front of his home several miles from Long Trail.

Knapp, the last known person to have seen the young art student, told authorities he was driving his car past Bennington College shortly after 3 p.m. on Dec. 1 when he was hailed by Paula just beyond the college gate.

When Knapp arrived at his home, he said, he stopped the car and the girl alighted with the remark: "Thanks, that's swell."

Not a clue to her subsequent movements has been uncovered.

Sex Maniac?

Bellef has been divided as to whether she was attacked and slain by a sex maniac or became lost on the tortuous trail and perished. The outside possibility that she was accidentally shot by a hunter also was investigated.

The State's Attorney, William Travers Herome, Jr., was called into the case.

Jerome, son of the famed New York prosecutor who handled the murder trial of the late Harry K. Thaw, ordered the questioning of bus drivers, train conductors and taxicab drivers and altered highway patrols. Reports that Paula had been seen in various places throughout the East and Canada proved worthless.

Governor Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut sent a man-and-woman team of state detectives to help in the investigation.

By that time, however, snow had obliterated any trace they might have picked up of Paula's trail.

A Stamford, Conn., newspaper retained Raymond C. Schindler, a noted private detective, to investigate the case. Schindler poked around quietly for three weeks, then declared there was but slight hope Miss Welden still lived. It was highly probable, he said, that she had met with violent death.

Other Cases

Miss Welden's disappearance recalled three similar cases, all of which occurred on Fridays at Smith College, across the border in Massachusetts.

De Gasperi Forms New Cabinet

Rome, May 31. Italy's 18-day crisis was solved tonight when Signor Alcide de Gasperi, Christian Democrat leader, announced that he had completed the formation of his cabinet. The Government does not include any Socialists or Communists.

The new ministers will be: Christian Democrats: Defence—Mario Cingolani, Education—Guido Genella, Public-Works—Umberto Tupini, Industry and Commerce—Giuseppe Togni, Labour—Amintore Fanfani, Merchant Marine—Paolo Capponi, Posts and Telegraphs—Umberto Merlin, and Agriculture—Antonio Segni.

Independents: Treasury, Finance and Vice-Premier—Luigi Cinaudi, Governor of the Bank of Italy; Foreign Affairs—Count Carlo Sforza, Foreign Trade— Cesare Morzagora, and Transport—Guido Corbellini.—Reuter.

Double Inquest Ordered

Southport, May 31. A double inquest was opened here today following the mysterious death yesterday of 65-year-old Dr. Robert George Clements, three days after the death of his fourth wife Amy Victoria.

Dr. Clements was found dead in his flat yesterday after the police had told him that a post-mortem examination had been ordered on his wife and that her funeral had been postponed. Investigations by the police had shown that the Doctor's first wife died in Belfast, Northern Ireland in 1920, his second wife in Manchester in 1927, and his third in Southport in 1939.

The cause of the death of his fourth mistress was given as jaundice. Her funeral was being held today. Today's inquest was adjourned after evidence of identity had been given.—Reuter.

King's Visit To Trinity

Cambridge, May 31. The King and the Duke of Gloucester, both old students of Trinity College, are taking part in the celebrations next Tuesday of the foundation of the College.

The King and Queen will arrive by train from Sandringham in the morning and will fulfil a six-hour programme including a service in the Chapel. They will attend a college luncheon at which madrigals will be sung, and at which the King will propose the toast of the college, an eighteenth century cricket match on the "Backs," and a garden party.

Both the King and the Duke are Honorary Doctors of Law of Trinity.

The American Ambassador, Mr. Lewis Douglas, and Mrs. Douglas will be among the guests present.—Reuter.

NAZI WIVES TO BE GAOLLED

Berlin, May 31.

The wives of the Nuremberg war criminals, Hess, Saukel and Shirach, will be arrested on Monday to face a Denazification court, the Bavarian Denazification Minister, Dr. Loritz, said today.

They will be taken to an internment camp at Goegglingen, near Augsburg, where they will join Emmy Goering, widow of Herman Goering, and the widow of the former governor of Poland, Herr Frank, who are already under arrest.—Reuter.

BRAZEN TRUMPET

It is not very difficult to guess why the Soviet Government organ Izvestia should have accused Mr. Bevin of misleading the House of Commons in his account of the Moscow Conference. More puzzling is the subsequent outburst from Izvestia, not against Mr. Bevin but against Mr. Eden, for questioning not Russian policy in Germany but American policy in Japan. It can only be surmised that the temptation to launch out into a general anti-British propaganda campaign, somewhat damped down during the Moscow Conference, has now become irresistible.

To discuss at length the attack on Mr. Bevin would serve no useful purpose. If his very restrained account of the difficulties met at Moscow was, as the Soviet official organ suggests, mere distortion and prevarication, the detailed points can hardly be argued dispassionately, and it seems hardly worth while hurling long-distance insults. But the reflections on Mr. Bevin deserve examination. In the foreign affairs debate of May 15 he mentioned, among much else, American plans to build up the Japanese textile industry to a pre-war standard which might dominate textile markets throughout South-East Asia. He pointed out that while Japan must live, a full-scale restoration of her textile industry must damage Lancashire, and said that we should feel less concern if only decent wages were paid and proper hours of work maintained in Japan. This very moderate statement of the facts might have been heated up by Izvestia to back some fresh attack on "American Imperialism" or the exploitation of Japanese workers. But, no; it is used to prove that in Mr. Eden's eyes the war against Japan was not against aggression, but "for the domination of the markets and economy of the Colonial and semi-independent countries of Asia."

Now the Russian people have been repeatedly told of late that the Soviet Union by itself was about to crush Germany when the Western Allies opened the Second Front. This untrue and ungenerous assertion is sufficiently irritating to Russia's Allies. But it is really going too far when an official voice from the Soviet explains to us why we are at war with Japan. Britain, the United States and the Dominion fought the Japanese for nearly four years and made heavy sacrifices. Soviet Russia declared war on Aug. 8, 1945, two days after the dropping of the first atomic bomb and less than two days before the Japanese in consequence of that bomb sought to surrender. Why the Russians did not fight the Japanese earlier and why they declared war then it would be impolite to discuss. But it is quite intolerable to be told that it was not our purpose "to eradicate the Far Eastern hotbed of Fascist aggression" by the official organ of a country which for nearly four years had left that hotbed undisturbed. If these exasperating attacks are to emanate from Moscow we should prefer that the trumpet should be a little less brazen.

WHEN PANIC SWEPT THE SOVIET CAPITAL

New York, May 30. Panic swept Moscow on October 16, 1941, when three quarters of the population, including many high officials, expected the Germans to capture the Soviet capital almost immediately.

Revelation of the extent of the Moscow panic—often rumoured but never before reported in detail—has been made by Alexander Werth, British correspondent who spent most of the war years in Russia, in "The Year of Stalingrad" (Alfred A. Knopf.)

Other revelations made by Werth:

The loss of Rostov to the Germans in July, 1942, was due to panic among high-ranking Soviet officers charged with the defence of the city, and to unreasoning flight of Soviet civilian officials.

Army Purged

The Rostov disaster led to a far-reaching and still little-known purge of the Red Army in which many officers were reduced in rank. Others were relieved of command and some were shot.

There was widespread disloyalty and treachery among the Tatar residents of the Crimea and also among the backward tribes and Moslem residents of the Caucasus, contributing to Nazi success in both regions.

One of the secrets of the successful Russian defence of Stalingrad was the fact that vodka was No. 2 on the list of supply priorities, second only to arms and ammunition.

Werth quotes Moscow resident as telling that on Oct. 16, 1941:

"Bloody Chaos"

"Here it was a bloody chaos. The top people started running away like mad.... All over the place people were chucking up their jobs and bolting. Our resistance had broken down completely. If they (the Germans) had pressed on for another hour, there might not have been any Moscow left."

Werth reported that there was widespread looting in Moscow at this time and in the months following when the capital was largely depleted of its civilian population.

The Moscow panic, he revealed, was halted the next day by announcement that Generalissimo Stalin was remaining in Moscow with his Government.

Werth reported that there was apparently largely by throwing thousands of the Moscow home guard.

Slaughtered

The home guard, he reported, were nearly all slaughtered by the well-armed German infantry and the panzers, but they held the Germans up sufficiently long to give the Russian tanks time to intervene."

Regarding the Rostov panic,

Werth reported that there were still many survivors but "numerous indications that at Rostov both the population and the command of the troops lost their heads and there were cases of serious panic."

"What happened at Rostov? Many dark hints were later dropped in the press and in private conversations. The gist of it all was that certain units of the Red Army panicked and fled.... After the fall of Rostov many were shot and demoted; generals, officers and ordinary soldiers.... There was a quick purge, with numerous demotions in the Army. Draastic measures had to be taken."

The Moscow panic, he revealed, was halted the next day by an announcement that

Generalissimo Stalin was remaining in Moscow with his Government.

Unlimited Supply Of Vodka

Werth reported that the normal Soviet Army ration of vodka was 100 grams a day.

"At Stalingrad conditions were such that the vodka supply was almost unlimited, and the daily consumption of a quarter, or even half a litre (about a pint) was very usual."

That applied to the privates;

officers, particularly commanding officers, drank brandy, which is a non-alcoholic drink.

American Call For Action This Summer Putting Country On Feet Again

Arms For Palestine Terrorists

London, May 31.

Gibraltar, Oran and Tangier are the key points in "considerable traffic in arms for Palestine terrorists" which is passing through the Straits of Gibraltar, says the Tangier correspondent of the Sunday Times.

Many of the boats used by the terrorists for arms running and immigrant carrying are former craft of the British Navy, recently disposed of by the Admiralty, the correspondent adds.

"British intelligence sources now have adequate proof of how Admiralty agents have been deceived by the buyers. Arms, including machine-guns, ammunition and bombs, have been traced from Eire, Central America and Belgium, shipped by cargo vessels through the Mediterranean. The arms are transferred at night to ships in Tangier harbour," says the Sunday Times report.—Reuter.

New York, May 31. The New York Times, in a lead editorial today, said the State Department should send out a call "at once" to summon "all powers which took part in the war against Japan" into a conference "to write the treaty with Japan this summer."

Commenting on ex-President Herbert Hoover's proposals for separate treaties with Japan and possibly Germany, the newspaper pointed out that Germany is in need of American relief primarily because it is split into four zones, thus retarding recovery.

The paper noted the Foreign Ministers agreed to plan anew and write a German treaty in November and said "that agreement should be kept" before plans are made to go ahead separately with regard to Germany.

Trade Or Starve

"But Japan is not split into separate zones," the paper added. "It is under the sole administration of General MacArthur. It has its own neutralized Government there is scarcely any dispute about its boundaries. If Japan is none the less no better off than Germany and in equal need of American relief the reason must be sought primarily in the delay in peace."

The paper pointed out that "Japan must live on industry and trade or starve" and continued that industrial recovery logs even behind Germany because of "lack of raw materials which it is not permitted to buy and because of the uncertainty as to which plants are going to be demilitarized or dismantled for reparations."

Urgent Need

General MacArthur is well aware of the situation and the first to urge an early Japanese peace, the paper added.

The General's proposal for immediate termination of occupation upon completion of the treaty is "another question" but "there can be no doubt about the feasibility and urgent need of a treaty which will release Japan's energies to help herself."

"There is certainly no reason why the Japanese treaty must wait on the German peace treaty still stalled in the Council of Foreign Ministers." — United Press.

No Decision

Ottawa, May 31. The Minister for External Affairs, Louis St. Laurent, told the House of Commons today that the United Kingdom and Commonwealth nations are discussing the possibility of holding preliminary talks before the world peace conference for Japan but that "no final decision has yet been taken with regard to any of these proposals."

The Minister was asked from the floor whether the formal peace conference with Japan would be an 11-power parley with representatives of the 11 nations which fought against Japan.

He replied: "I cannot say any determination has been made in that regard."

St. Laurent said the Canadian Government shared the view of the British Foreign Secretary, Mr. Ernest Bevin, that the 11 powers should be associated in the preparation of the treaty.—United Press.

Canberra Talks

London, May 31. An official Australian spokesman said today that the British Government now has agreed to send the Minister of State, Hector McNeil, to Canberra to attend the Commonwealth conference on Japanese peace terms in August.

Although the Australian Government had suggested July as the conference date, the Australians were pleased with the British decision as it may induce both Canada and South Africa to brush aside their objections to the choice of Canberra as the conference site.

Should Canada and South Africa finally agree to participate at Canberra, political observers said the two dominions would hardly be represented by any top-ranking personalities but probably only by their respective high commissioners accredited with the Australian Government.—United Press.

COMMUNISM IN U.S.

Dallas, Texas, June 1. United States Attorney General Tom Clark said today that Communistic activity throughout the United States has declined somewhat but still continues.

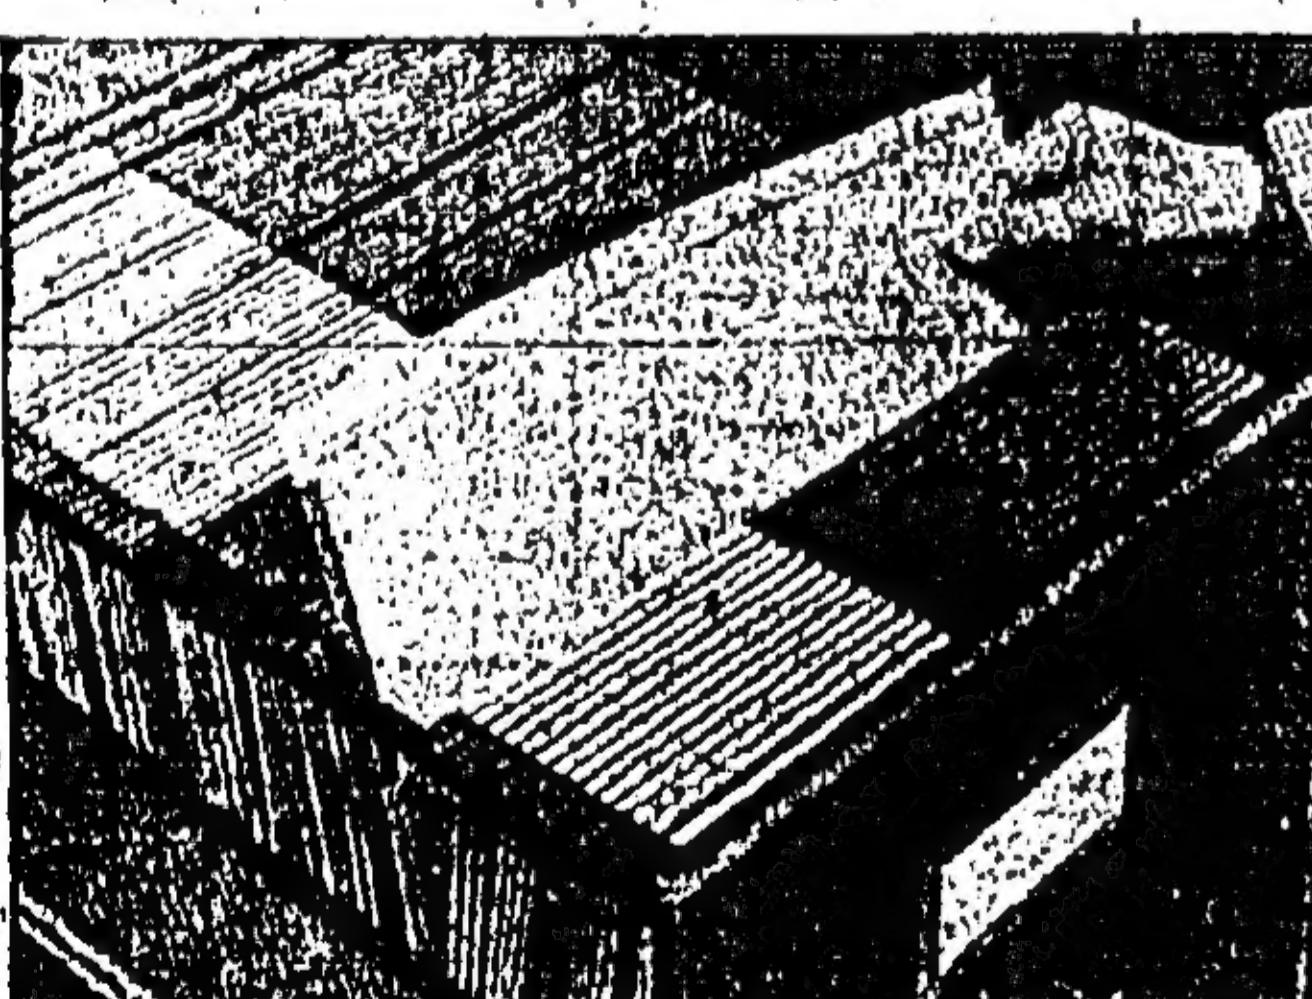

He told newsmen the decrease in activity resulted from President Truman's order eliminating Communistic and other subversive elements from government payrolls, publicity concerning the prosecution of Communistic elements when federal laws have been violated, the work of the Congressional Un-American Activities Committee and efforts of the labour unions to purge Communists and others with subversive connections.—Associated Press.

The first thing to notice about this system is the instant and complete visibility of all the names or titles at a glance directly the drawer is opened.

The second, that the framework or cradle from which the folders are suspended drops straight into any ordinary quarter or foot-scap filing drawer, so that its installation entails no scrapping of present filing cabinets and consequently no needless expense.

Thirdly, the top channels on which the titles are indexed do not encroach upon the filing space or reduce the capacity of the drawer for papers.

Abd-El-Krim Surprise: Lands In Egypt

Abd-El-Krim, 67-year-old Riff leader, who was exiled for 21 years to Madagascar by the French, landed at Port Said with his family today.

THE COST

Edinburgh, May 31. For every family in Britain, approximately 12 dollars a week is spent on drink, tobacco and betting, according to a report which goes before the United Free Church of Scotland Assembly tomorrow.

Reports from Madrid said that the Riff leader's release had caused nervousness in Spain and that the Spanish Government had protested in Paris.

In 1921 Abd-El-Krim came into an ace of ejecting Spain itself from Morocco and caused a great upheaval, both in Morocco and Spain. From 1921 to 1925, when the joint French and Spanish army finally defeated him, Abd-El-Krim ruled most of Spain and Morocco.

In an interview at Suez earlier this week, Abd-El-Krim said: "I have been granted an amnesty by the French on condition that I live in France. If I had any choice, I should prefer to live in Egypt until I am permitted to return to Morocco."

He added that the French Government's decision on whether to take diplomatic action, and what the nature of such action would be, would not be taken until a full report was received of the sudden unexpected landing of the Arab leader in Egypt on his way to Marseilles.

"Very strong pressure seemed to have been exercised on him and he changed his mind. He received visits on board ship from important journalists from various Arab countries, from the chief Egyptian political officer of the Port of Suez and chief of the Suez Canal. We have not been able to receive confirmation of the reports in the Press that he was invited to land in Egypt by King Farouk," the spokesman added.—Reuter.

A high official from King Farouk's court went aboard the Australian liner Kaloomet when it arrived at Port Said and greeted Abd-El-Krim. It was reportedly that the Riff leader landed in Egypt at King Farouk's invitation.—Reuter.

Strong Reaction

Paris, May 31. The surprise landing in Egypt today of Abd-El-Krim, the leader of the Moroccan revolt against the French in the 1920's was expected here to provoke strong reaction from the French Government.

Rangoon Round-Up

Rangoon, May 31. Troops continued to man Rangoon police stations today while the authorities rounded up "rebel" leaders of the Police Union, whose activities resulted in the arming of the entire Burmese police force in the city on Thursday night.

The Burmese press today said that the Criminal Investigation Department were combing the city and suburbs for U Wan Maung, one-time police hero and leader of last year's general strike, who is suspected to be the key figure in the recent disturbances.

Rangoon remained calm as troops maintained a day and night vigil. Reports of minor shooting incidents in the city suburbs cannot be confirmed.

It is authoritatively learned that the enrollment of a large number of "people's volunteers" as special police. The move is a sequel to the current police unrest as well as the need for police reinforcements in the districts.—Reuter.

Coal Strike Threat

Washington, June 1. The threat of a new nationwide coal strike became heavier as contract talks between John L. Lewis and 75 percent of the operators collapsed over a 35 cents an hour pay increase demand.

The breakup of the negotiations heightened the prospect that a mine walkout on July 1 might provide the first test of the new legislation to deal with the nation's emergency strikes and curb union activities—if President Truman signs it.

And Mr. Truman is generally expected to take all factors into account in deciding for or against vetoing the labour bill.—Associated Press.

They were unable to agree on whether the term "soldier" should mean combatants or should include civilians and supporting units of the military government headquarters.

Further developments included:

1. The National Liberation group called a meeting tomorrow at Beirut to discuss the situation.

2. Monseigneur Ignatius Mouharak, Archbishop of Beirut in the Christian Maronite sect, left for Paris by plane to present the opposition's viewpoint of the recent election.—United Press.

Duchess Arrested In Madrid

Madrid, May 31.

The Duchess, of Valencia, millionaire rachorse owner and prominent figure in Madrid society and an ardent monarchist, was arrested today on a charge of making propaganda against the regime.

The Duchess was previously in trouble in March 1946, when she was fined 250,000 pesetas after a scene in a smart tenement in Madrid's Gran Vía when she distributed monarchist propaganda.

It was understood that the Duchess was arrested at her Madrid home and taken to Madrid police headquarters in Puerta de Sol, where she is being held at present.

At the Duchess' home, it was stated that she was "out." The Duke is in the Canary Islands, but was understood to be flying home today.

The police, during Thursday and Friday, rounded up 40 persons connected with a printing plant which was turning out monarchist propaganda and it was expected that further arrests will arise out of this.—Reuter.

He Got A New Slant

New York, May 31.

Leonard d'Attolico, 26-year-old former paratrooper from Brooklyn, parachuted from a private plane into midtown Manhattan today grinding away with a movie camera as he floated past the big buildings. He claimed he was just trying to get a "new slant" on pictures of New York.

The police didn't like it and locked up d'Attolico on a charge of endangering public health. d'Attolico, whose own health was most endangered, landed in a back yard of 44th street between Eighth and Ninth Avenues. This spot was only three blocks from the target which police said was Times Square.

Police said he is a former Army paratrooper with 17 previous jumps, including two in Pacific combat.—United Press.

Soviets Refuse To Reduce Forces

Berlin, May 31.

The "big powers" in Germany failed today in a quiet 2-1/2 hour session of the Allied Control Council to agree on total occupation forces less than 500,000.

The Russian military governor, Marshal Vassily Sokolovsky, refused to accept a British compromise proposal which would have reduced the British, Russian and American forces to 150,000 each.

Sokolovsky, still sticking to Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov's proposal at the Moscow conference, asked for 200,000 troops for Russia and 200,000 combined—100,000 each for Great Britain and the United States. The French would be permitted between 50,000 and 70,000.

The four powers, in Berlin agreed to make separate reports to their own governments on the deadlock. The Foreign Ministers in Moscow had ordered the Control Council to reach an agreement by June 1.

Major Change

Sokolovsky also advised the military governors of a major change in Soviet military administration. He announced that Lieut. Gen. Dravtyn, one of his top aides, has replaced Col. Gen. Kurochkin as deputy military governor. Dravtyn will sit on the coordinating committee, a subsidiary body to the Control Council. Kurochkin, he said, has been sent by the Soviet government "to another post."

One of the major obstacles the four powers ran up against in discussing the reduction of forces was the question of what constitutes a soldier.

The armed forces directorate struggled with the issue during recent weeks. Then it was passed to the coordinating committee which, in turn, passed it to the Control Council after failing to break the deadlock on Wednesday.

They were unable to agree on whether the term "soldier" should mean combatants or should include civilians and supporting units of the military government headquarters.

Further developments included:

1. The National Liberation group called a meeting tomorrow at Beirut to discuss the situation.

2. Monseigneur Ignatius Mouharak, Archbishop of Beirut in the Christian Maronite sect, left for Paris by plane to present the opposition's viewpoint of the recent election.—United Press.

STRIKE IN THE LEBANON

Beirut, May 31.

Workers struck in the north Lebanon city of Tripoli, and closed down most of the business centre of Beirut in response to a demonstration appeal from the newly formed Lebanon opposition party of "National Liberation."

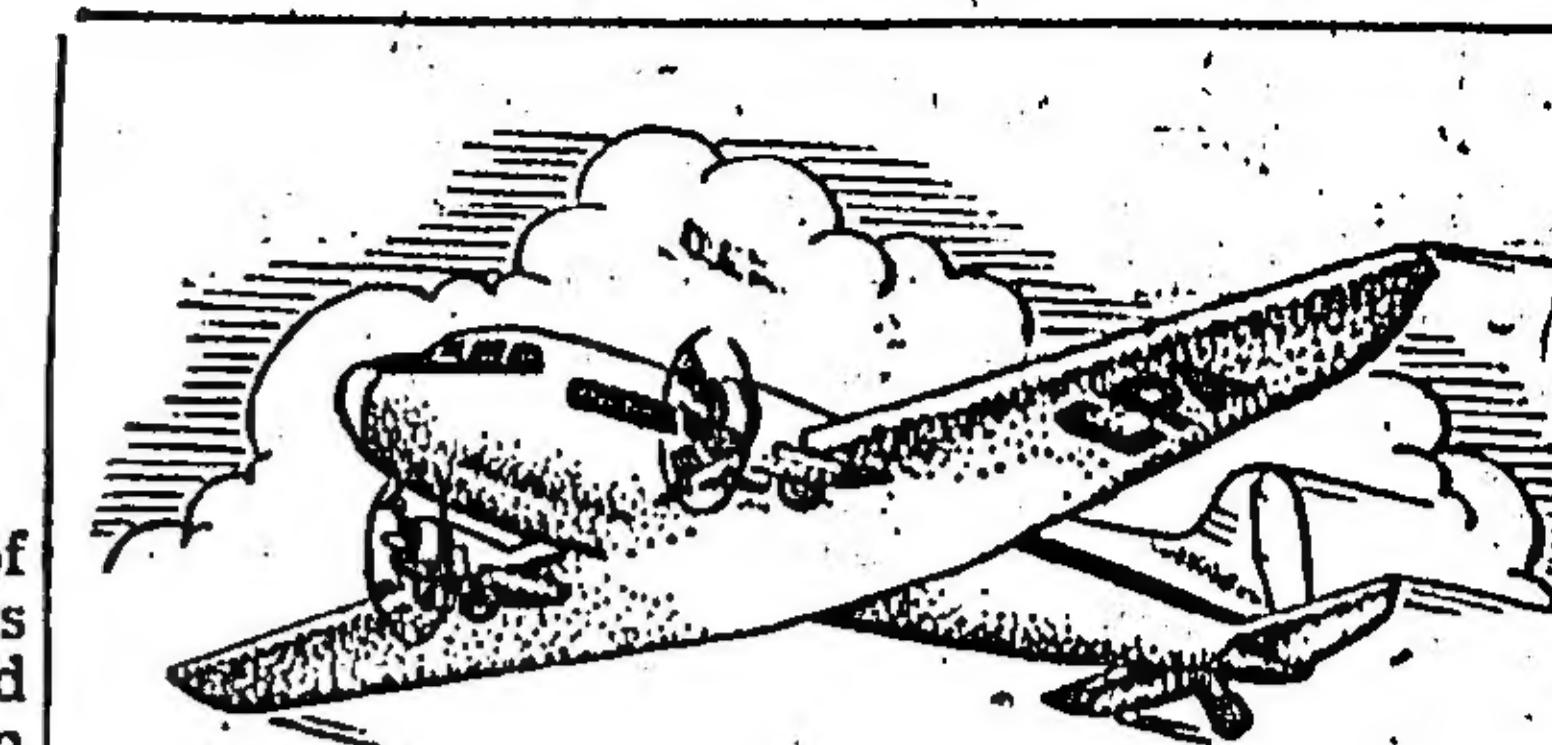

A demonstration was threatened in Beirut but leaders called it off for fear of bloodshed. Taking no chances the Government then forbade any demonstration.

The development came amid turmoil in the country after charges of irregularities in last Sunday's election which resulted in a Government victory.

The development came amid further developments including:

1. The National Liberation group called a meeting tomorrow at Beirut to discuss the situation.

2. Monseigneur Ignatius Mouharak, Archbishop of Beirut in the Christian Maronite sect, left for Paris by plane to present the opposition's viewpoint of the recent election.—United Press.

London, May 31.

A tribute to the Malay Regiment which provided two full battalions against the Japanese invasion, is paid by Major General A. C. Percival, O. C. Malaya during 1941 and 1942, in a report on the Regiment released here.

General Percival, commenting on the men of the Regiment, said: "In particular, their stubborn defence of the Paarl Panjang ridge at the height of the battle of Singapore set an example of tenacity and endurance under the most difficult conditions which will become a great tradition in the Regiment and an inspiration for future generations."

The report said that two Distinguished Service Medals, two Military Crosses, one Military Medal, two medals for membership to the British Empire (Military Division) and 14 mentioned in despatches were granted to soldiers of the Malay Regiment between 1942 and 1946.—Reuter.

German Paper Banned

Berlin, May 31.

The Soviet authorities today banned for a week public sale of the Soviet licensed German newspaper "Neue Zeit" for its criticism of the Communist sponsored Socialist Unity Party newspaper, "Berliner Zeitung."

The "Neue Zeit," organ of the Christian Democratic Party, alleged that the Socialist Unity paper had misled its readers in an article on the political tendencies of the 40 papers published in the Soviet Zone.

It also criticised the five German premiers in the Soviet Zone for their reply to a Bavarian invitation to Munich for an all-German premiers meeting—they refused to go to Munich and suggested Berlin instead.—Reuter.

Collaborators On Strike

Paris, May 31.

Thirty French collaborationists in Fresnes Prison near Paris began a hunger strike today.

The demonstration started when the prisoners refused to eat their mid-day meal.

The prison authorities have not yet disclosed the reason for the strike.

Recently women at Fresnes staged a hysterical riot by raiding the prison hospital stores where they made themselves intoxicated by drinking either and ended the demonstration in an orgy of chocolate eating.—Reuter.

All-American Final In British Amateur Golf Championship

Fighting back strongly after being five down in the memorable first all-American final in the history of the British Amateur Golf Championship, Willie Turnesa of White Plains, New York, defeated Richard Chapman of Pinehurst, North Carolina, by three and two over 36 holes.

When play started an hour late because of a thunderstorm during which torrential rain soaked the course, Chapman became five up on the ninth but Turnesa won the next five holes to square in which state the match remained at the end of the first round.

A thick mist drifted over the course and made distance judgment difficult in the afternoon, but the course was swathed with spectators, who were impressed by the magnificent quality of golf and pluck of the contestants.

Chapman taking three to reach the green at the 27th hole came one down for the first time in the match. Deadly putting was an outstanding feature. Turnesa's scores were 75 and 70 against Chapman's 76 and 74. The course scratch score is 76.

Just Too Good
"I feel very fortunate to win the title," Turnesa said as he took the cup after the match. He added he hoped to return next year to defend it.

Chapman, claiming Turnesa as his best friend, said that Turnesa was "just too good for me".

The high standard of golf can be best shown by the figures obtained by both men on the 7,200 yards seaside course, which has a pair of 76—38 and 38.

Turnesa on the first 18; reached the turn in 36 the second time and was two under four.

American Baseball

New York, June 1. In the National League young Ralph Branca pitched Brooklyn into third place with Boston in the tight race by shutting out Boston 5 to 0. It was Branca's fifth win to three losses.

Centrefielder Pete Reiser's home scoring first, baseman Jackie Robinson highlighted a four run spree by Brooklyn in the third inning.

Rookie outfielder Lloyd Gerhart homered in the last of the ninth inning to give the New York Giants a 10 to 9 victory in a free hitting fray.

Four home runs were hit during the two and one half hour game in which nine pitchers were used.

The rest of the National League teams were idle, with the exception of the Chicago-Pittsburgh game which is to be played at night.

In the American League Outfielder Charlie Keller drove in five runs with two homers and a single as the New York Yankees routed Bob Feller, 8 to 4.

Detroit increased its league lead to 3½ games by defeating Washington 5 to 4. Centrefielder Stan Spence accounted for all the Washington runs with two runs, two runs in the seventh and ninth innings.

Call Off The Games

(By Vernon Morgan, Reuters Sports Editor)

London, May 31.

Heading its leading article "Call Off The Games," the London evening Conservative newspaper, "Evening Standard," with a circulation of nearly a million, today attacks the holding of the next Olympiad in London next year.

"Remembering the nobility with which the teams of the past have questioned the decisions of the judges, squabbled over definitions of "amateur" and imported into the games a spirit of nationalistic pride and prestige in its most intense and narrow forms, the majority of the British people are viewing the preparations for the 1948 London Olympiad with no enthusiasm and some distaste," the newspaper says.

I must cross swords with the leader writer. There is enthusiasm among thousands of this sport-loving nation for next year's Olympiad even though there are those who think we are biting off more than we can chew in holding the Games so soon after the war.

If there is distaste, there is very little apparent anywhere.

To continue, the Standard leader said that these big and bewildering jamborees have not yet actually caused war, but not one of them, within living memory, has been unaccompanied by strife, wrath, quarrels and bad feeling, or has lived up to the ideal of Baron Pierre Coubertin to "preserve in sport those characteristics of nobility and chivalry which have distinguished it in the past."

Do More Good

The newspaper add: "But is it too late to call off this whole affair? In the present condition of Europe it is almost certain that many of the nations would be thankful for the opportunity to avoid what must be no less of a nuisance to them than it is to Britain, and all the countries invited could be confidently expected to understand the situation which compels Britain to revoke the invitations that, from the first, were ill-considered."

The writer overestimates the squabbles which have taken place during the earlier Olympiads. There have been some but not overruled that the scarcity of playing fields and sports grounds in Britain is the main reason why athletics is a "Cinderella" sport, and that assistance in providing funds for these unions would be of lasting benefit to the nation and could not be called "nationalisation."

The Olympic Marathon of 1948, perhaps the greatest of the 130 Olympic events, will be run along North London's streets and lanes into leafy Hertfordshire, past the world famous film studios at Elstree and back into the stadium at Wembley, whence the race started.

The course of the 42,203 kilometres (26 miles, 385 yards) has now been decided upon, having been carefully measured to its exact distance by famous Olympic runners of the past under the direction of Billy Holt, honorary secretary of the International Olympic Association.

1908 Sensation

That is the public opinion as openly expressed a few weeks ago. Whether other nations would be glad to call off the Games, none in this country is qualified to say, but judging by a recent trip of this writer to the Continent and by the messages received by Reuter from all over the world, there would seem to be every desire abroad to hold them again.

They do not appear to regard them as a nuisance and wish to avoid them. Rather, they would like bitterly disappointed—if the Games were not held.

The Standard leader writer is right in saying that other countries would understand if we said we were not ready and would excuse us just as a guest understands when his host puts him off at the last minute owing to unforeseen circumstances.

But would they be "thankful" as the newspaper leader says? Guests will find means of refusing invitations when they do not wish to accept them.

Special Track

Meanwhile, everything is being got ready to produce a running track in the stadium of true Olympic culture. This track, which will encircle the world-famous football pitch, is almost certain to be brick-coloured and of special binding emulsion.

Famous athletes are busy experimenting on various types of surfaces, and shortly what has been considered to be the most suitable will be given a final test by men like MacDonald Bailey, and others.

Both Indian and Indian showed at the big White City meeting last week that they must be considered for Olympic honours in the sprint and the 400 metres respectively. Whether they run for

Sing Tao Win Again

Manila, June 1.

In their second game here the visiting Sing Tao football team today defeated a Number Two selection of the Manila Football League by four clear goals.

The visitors again outclassed the home team before a large crowd of spectators (mostly Chinese) at the Rizal football stadium.

Cheung Kam-hoi, who starred in yesterday's game against the Chinese Collegians, netted two goals—one in the first half and the other in the second. The other scorers were Chow Man-chi, who scored in the first half, and Chui Wing-keung, who scored in the second period.

Rain marred play in the second half, making the ground most slippery and drenching the players.—United Press.

Manila's press gave big praise to the Hong Kong team.

Today's Manila Times describes their playing as "like a well oiled machine" and, in referring to yesterday's game against the Chinese Collegians, Manila's best Chinese team, says that "they completely outclassed" their opponents.—Reuter.

GOLF TOURNEY

Newton, Mass., May 31.

Lew Worsham of Bethesda, Maryland, took the lead in the third round of the Gondall Round Robin golf tourney when he carded 73.

South Africa's Bobby Locke, now in second place, is one point behind Worsham, who is a 29-year-old Navy veteran.

Vic Chezzi of Kansas City moved into third place six points behind Worsham.—United Press.

have about seven miles which has to be covered twice.

A large circuit of about 12 miles is only to be covered once. A good proportion of the course is in the country, it having been the aim of the organisers to avoid as much built-up area as possible.

The road surface throughout will be good. There will be markers at each mile and kilometre denoting the distance covered. The mile markers will be in one colour and the kilometre markers will be in another, to avoid confusion.

Feeding Stations

Feeding stations will be provided at 15, 20, 25, 30, 35 and 40 kilometres. Positions and times of leading competitors at 5, 10, 15 and 20 miles will be relayed to the stadium.

Prior to the race, which takes place on Saturday, August 7, the competitors will be taken round the course in a motor coach.

On the Saturday previous to the Marathon will be held the 50 kilometre walk over most of the marathon course with an additional loop at Redditch in Hertfordshire.

This distance was measured by Harold Whitlock, the Olympic record holder of the event, who won the last walk-in Berlin, 11 years ago.

This event has only been held twice in modern Olympic history and each time it was won by an Englishman, Tommy Green having won it at Los Angeles in 1932.—Reuter.

Davis Cup Semi-Final

London, May 31.

South Africa, Czechoslovakia and France have reached the semi-final round of the European Zone of the Davis Cup lawn tennis competition.

South Africa defeated Great Britain by four rubbers to one at Scarborough, when the remaining two singles were shared today and will meet the winners of the third round between Belgium and Yugoslavia, which began in Brussels today.

France, having won two singles yesterday, eliminated Monaco by three matches to zero by winning the doubles in Paris today, and now meet Czechoslovakia, who eliminated New Zealand 3-0 by winning the doubles in Prague today.

"Soviet Sport" On The Olympics

Moscow, May 31.

The allegation that Great Britain, worried by possible loss of prestige, and other countries weak in amateur football have made a vain attempt to convert next year's Olympic Games soccer tournament into an "open competition" is made in the Moscow magazine "Soviet Sport," tonight.

"There is a shortage of good amateur players in England, and the minute a hopeful prospect appears he is snapped up by the professionals scouting of British football, for support of which such extraordinary means have been resorted to, such as the matching of Great Britain against the Rest of Europe.

"Since the efforts of those trying to secure the open tournament have been unsuccessful, Britain, France, Italy, and the Latin American countries—Argentina, Brazil and Uruguay—face the unpleasant prospect of abstaining completely from the games, or sending teams which have little chance of success."

Heavy Burden

The journal makes a number of criticisms of the arrangements for the Olympic soccer tournament.

It points out that it will be staged between July 30 and Aug. 8 next year, a period of time which is obviously insufficient for the minimum of thirty teams expected to compete.

"Teams reaching the final will have to play two or three times a week and maybe more when one considers that games may have to be replayed," the magazine states.

"This will be a heavy burden, more so because under the Olympic rules each team is permitted no more than fourteen players."

"In England, matches are permitted only on Saturdays," Soviet Sport adds, "but perhaps for the Olympic Games an exception will be made."

Night Games

The paper also strongly criticises proposals to have night games, which, it says, requires special training which the majority of participants do not have.

"A factor which cannot be overlooked," the paper continues, "is the date of the tournament. In almost all countries in western, southern and central Europe this date coincides with the football vacations."

"Those countries will have to start training their players for the Olympic Games beforehand, giving rest to those who have just finished the season."

The magazine adds that for countries in northern and eastern Europe the period coincides with the period of their own football seasons.—Reuter.

BOWLS

Of the three games played on the Peninsula yesterday the best match was that between Kowloon Docks and Indian R.C. at Austin Road, when the latter won by the narrow margin of two shots.

Kowloon Football Club was badly trounced by the Recreio "A" when these two met at Cox's Path. The biggest defeat was, however, suffered by the Taikoo Docks at the Kowloon Docks when they went down to Kowloon Cricket Club by 34 shots.

The best scoring average was noted by E. C. Flinch's rink with two dozen, while R. Keown's four were only able to score on eight heads with a total of nine.
